GENERAL INFORMATION

Staff in the Division of Legal Services and Compliance of the Wisconsin Department of Safety and Professional Services investigate, and when appropriate, prosecute complaints against persons, organizations and business establishments regulated by the department and the regulatory boards attached to it. (A list of the groups regulated appears below). The boards and department establish and enforce standards of professional conduct for licensed persons and businesses and ensure that other persons are not practicing those occupations or professions and operating businesses unless licensed. The department and boards generally have the authority to reprimand a licensee, suspend or revoke the license of a licensee, limit the licensee's license or dismiss the complaint. Some boards can make additional determinations. The department and boards do not have the authority to award monetary damages or compel corrective actions, as these are primarily court functions.

This form is provided as a convenient means to submit the facts necessary to initiate an investigation. Your complaint will be reviewed to determine whether there appears to be a violation of the law or rules enforced by the appropriate board or the department. If the matter is investigated, it is likely that all persons with information about the case, including the person about whom you are complaining, will be contacted. Once the investigation is complete, a decision will be made as to an appropriate course of action to take. The case may be closed or formal disciplinary action may be commenced against the person about whom you are complaining. If the latter action is taken, there will likely be a hearing before either the relevant board or an administrative law judge. In any event, both the person making the complaint and the person against whom the complaint is made will be advised of the action taken in the case. Under Wisconsin's Open Records Law (Wis. Stats., Ch. 19), complaints will generally be available for review on request from a member of the public after board or agency action is completed.

Sec. 440.042(2), Stats., provides: "Any person who in good faith testifies before the department or any examining board, affiliated credentialing board or board in the department or otherwise provides the department or any examining board, affiliated credentialing board or board in the department with advice or information on a matter relating to the regulation of a person holding a credential is immune from civil liability for his or her acts or omissions in testifying or otherwise providing such advice or information. The good faith of any person specified in this subsection shall be presumed in any civil action and an allegation that such a person has not acted in good faith must be proven by clear and convincing evidence."

If you have any questions about this form or the procedure that will take place, please contact the department staff at (608) 266-7482.
